Laura Hollas examines Andy

'Story Book Land' To Delight Children

By Lois Sapp

Youngsters will get their chance to travel through Story Book Land and, for a day, live out fantasies they dreamed about while hearing their favorite bedtime story.

"They may be Little Boy Blue, or MacDonald on the farm, or maybe Jack who built the House", explained Marjorie Riley, chairman of the childrens activities for the Cameron Autumn Arts and Crafts Show.

The chairman continued "We want this section of the show to be especially exciting for the children and we hope we have been able to come up with activities that will be just that."

Old MacDonalds Farm has always been a favorite with the children. To represent this a childrens petting zoo is being planned and will be located at the show site at Cameron City Park.

"Many children do not have the opportunity to be close to farm animals so we feel this will be one of our biggest attractions", Mrs. Riley said.

Laura Hollas, 5 - year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Hollas, was thrilled when she accompanied committeemen while looking for animals for the zoo. It was her first time to pet a calf (see picture). The calf "Andy" is one of nine orphans being raised by Vrazel brothers, Gary, Steven and Louis, Although Andy may be too large by October, the brothers hope to have more baby calves by then.

A petting zoo would not be complete without a rabbit like Snowball (see picture). Ten month old Mandi Kirk, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mike Kirk, proves the rabbit is quite tame and would be great for the zoo. The rabbit is owned by Mandi's uncle, Eddy Young.

Another section of Story Book Land will be titled Little Boy Blue. Here children will feel the thrill of sliding down a haystack.

Still another part of the childrens center will be The House That Jack Built. Little hands will be challenged to put blocks together in the way their minds have visualized the house to look.

For the dreamer, Star Light, Star Bright, I Wish I Were ---. In this section children will make of themselves what they have dreamed of being. Face painting will change them into a clown, cowboy, Indian, baby doll or whatever.

Over the Meadow, in the Sand, in the Sun, there lived a Funny Pet -- make one. Moving deeper into Story Book Land the childs imagination will be able to change a plain rock into the pet of their liking.

"We want to urge the children to practice and get ready to participate in the special events we are planning also," Mrs. Riley continued. "We will have contests and prizes for the winners in such events as hoola hoop, jump rope and toss a football through a tire." All events will be on October 1.

The chairman said she has a talented committee to help stage this new attraction to the Arts and Crafts Show. Joining her in the childrens division are Ann Roberts, Laverne Humble, Helen Fuchs, Pat Camp, DeLane Yager, Betty Youngblood, Judy McDaniel and Joe Janak.

Bookkeeping Error Blamed

County Is $81,000 Short

Milam County's financial picture, already showing a deficit for the year, darkened a little more Monday morning when the county judge reported that the county's balance is $81,000 less than had been shown.

Judge O. B. Harden said it was a bookkeeping error and it started when the county went on its new bookkeeping system in January. County Auditor John Andres said it was the fault of the auditors who set up the system.

However, Judge Harden told The Herald that apparently the county auditor's office had not been reconciling bank statements each month and had reported the bank statement balance on its monthly report, without subtracting outstanding checks.

At the commissioners court meeting Monday Harden also mentioned $30,000 that had been transfered from the Rockdale State Bank general fund account to the Citizens National Bank general fund account and may have been figured as a receipt. He said Ray Harris of Harris, Havens and Co., the county's auditing firm, would be here this week to verify if it would affect the balance.

Harden asked commissioners about salary increases, as these would have to be published ten days before the budget hearing, set for August 29. He asked for a report about any comments they had from residents in their precincts, as they had been requested to do by the Committee for Better County Government.

Adolph Gresak said he hadn't heard much, but "people would hate to see a tax increase for raising salaries."

LaVert McKinney said he'd had a lot of calls, and he felt that no department's salaries should be raised and not the rest. He said he figured the county's deficit was $89,000, not $144,000 and that it was the court's responsibility to get finances in order.

Gerald Vinton said most of the people he heard from favored the salary increases for the sheriff's department.

Walter Stolte said if the county doesn't have the money he didn't see how it could raise salaries.

McKinney said the county has a plan to get more property on the tax roll and may raise valuations.

Harden told The Herald that it was too late to do this for the new budget, but funds are promised from the Manpower program to pay for corelating county school tax rolls with the county's. However this should be started soon in order to update the rolls for next year's tax assessments.

Judge Harden asked County Atty. John Henderson if the county could submit a deficit budget since it had shown deficits in previous years. Henderson said no, that the budget must be set within the tax rolls. He said if expenditures exceed income the the county had funds to transfer to the budget, that was legal.

Harden than asked commissioners if they wanted to vote on leaving expenses as they had been and to try to work out a balanced budget on the money available, and the court agreed. The budget hearing will be August 29 and it will be adopted by September 12.

In other business, the county tax rate was set at 95 cents, the same as last year, and the maximum the county can set.

Court voted to pay the Milano fire department $400 for rural fire calls and approved paying expenses for the district clerk to attend a seminar in September.

It also approved District Don Humble's appointment of Linda Brooks as probation department secretary with her salary to be paid from the probation supervisory fund.

Council OKs Signup For Paving Project

Paving of streets in the Green Addition may be starting in about a month, following completion of signup by Texas Securities Corp., the firm that is financing the assessment program.

A representative of the firm told Cameron city council Tuesday evening that, with a few exceptions, all residents in the 40-block area have signed up, and Texas Securities will underwrite the funds due from those not signing.

No date was set for start of the paving, but Mayor Lawrence Zotz said he expects it to start soon, perhaps within a month.

Council heard a group of school board members ask for help in solving a traffic congestion problem on 10th St. in front of the schools, asking if the street could be designated one-way during school hours.

The state engineer who did a traffic study for the city was present, and said he was willing to make a special study of the problem when school starts and make recommendations for a solution.

Approval of a special use permit requested by Mrs. Ruby Fry was granted, after discussion about whether or not it should be referred to the zoning commission. The permit is for a building to house birds which Fry said was her son's FFA project.

Mrs. Frances Price appeared and read a prepared statement about incidents concerning her son and police officers. She said if the council could not "get anything done" she would "go higher."

Questioned about the matter, Police Chief Kent Butler said any contacts between the police and Price's son had been made as the result of complaints and in his opinion there was no "har-

Tractor Trailride To Point Crisis

A four-man committee is attempting to establish a route in the Milam area for a protest "tractor trailride" Labor Day, September 5, dramatizing the price crisis for Texas farmers.

About 60 farmers and leaders from Texas Farm Bureau, Texas Farmers Union and individual operations in Milam, Falls and East Bell County discussed the farmer's plight Tuesday night at Cameron's First Methodist Hall.

Dick Ellison, of Baileyville, was discussion leader. Representatives from Texas Farm Bureau and Texas Farmers Union shared in idea and discussion leading the group to seven points toward getting public attention.

1. Setting aside differences on commodity pricing, incentives.
2. Tell problems to the public.
3. Getting consumer education to see farm crisis.
4. Boosting premium prices on commodities.
5. Donating commodities to be dumped on the White House lawn.
6. Mailing in networth decline figures in tax returns to public officials.
7. Enlisting aid of other unions.

Edwin Lehmann, former president of Milam County Farm Bureau, told the group they might call themselves "farmers and ranchers for survival." And his comments drew applause from the tri-county group.

Discussion centered around "commitment". Ellison and Lehmann among others emphasized the need to take action and continue to press for public awareness of farm conditions which to a man the group said is "disastrous."

Committeemen will determine the likely route for a "tractor trail ride" going roughly from Cameron to Temple to Taylor and back to Rockdale-Cameron area Labor Day, Ellison said.

Farmers mentioned a petition, need for commitment of young farmers. Older men said they saw the need, but they saw more the need for younger farmers to commit to dramatizing the farmer 's problems.

Print and electronic media were covering the meeting, first of its kind in Central Texas. A Farmers Union spokesman said similar meetings had been held in two other sections of the state. And he

Krenek To Head Folk Fete

Pearlie Krenek, of Cameron, has been elected president of the 1978 Folk Fete, joined in the new executive committee by James Anderle as first vice president and Jeff Webster, both of Cameron, as second vice president.

Mrs. Krenek was elected new president succeeding Milton Wright during an annual meeting of the Folk Fete Board of Directors Tuesday night at First National Meeting Room.

Board members heard final reports on the 1977 Folk Fete which netted $3,043.01, including $778.03 from an earlier balance. Net balance for Folk Fete, Inc., is $4,293.31, including a $1,250.30 fund on time deposit.

Fete directors discussed the success at the 1977 location of Folk Fete at the Southwest Cameron Fiesta Grounds. Admissions totaled 3,762, one of the highest counts at the Fete grounds in the eight years of the festival.

First Vice President John Barrett also led discussion on the 1977 Fete, joining Wright, outgoing president and directors Dean Trubee and Charles Kunz in prospects for permament buildings at the Fiesta Grounds or some other site for Folk Fete, which went to its third site this summer.

Folk Fete income totaled $10-279.98 and expenses totaled $7,995, according to the final Aug. 16 financial report released by the Fete directors. Main expenses were ice and beverages for $2,822.40 and bands for $1,410.

Main income was admissions for $3,762.10 and larger expense items were beer, ice, soft drinks and popcorn for $5,063.13.

Fete directors voted to meet monthly until the next Folk Fete in June, 1978. Exact date to be established after Trubee and Barrett discussed conflicting event possibilities with Rockdale spokesmen.

Wright thanked both incoming and outgoing directors for their presence, noting the financial success of 1977 Folk Fete reflected the efforts of many leaders and workers.

Cameron Man Killed When Truck Overturns

A Cameron man became the county's sixth traffic fatality of the year Monday when he was killed in a one-vehicle accident just before 4 p.m.

Thomas Rubio, 28, was pronounced dead at the scene by Justice of the Peace Jess Brock after the bob-tail truck he was driving went out of control and overturned, crushing him beneath the vehicle.

The accident occurred about three miles south of Cameron on Farm Road 1600. The truck, owned by Elm Creek Dairy, was hauling silage.

Funeral service for Rubio was pending at Marek-Burns-Laywell Funeral Home at presstime.

DPS Trooper Jerry Benson investigated the accident.

Correction

Correct prices for lunches in the Cameron Schools are: kindergarten through 2nd, 50 cents; 3rd through high school, 60 cents; adults, 75 cents. The Herald regrets the error.

TRC Spokesman Cites Mining Law Impact

Roy Payne, director of the recently established surface mining division of Texas Railroad Commission, noon Tuesday told Rockdale Rotarians the responsibilities in overseeing expanded use of Texas coal and uranium.

Introduced by Hal Reagan , head of Texas Alcoa public relations, Payne said more changes have been introduced in recent months by the first Texas Surface Mining and Reclamation Act than in years at Texas Railroad Commission. TRC has supervisory responsibilities over all Texas oil and gas development, production and pipelines.

Payne said lignite stripmining in the Milam area would be begun by Shell Oil in the time frame of 1981 to 1985. Shell has been conducting a feasability study in the past year on economic impact of a stripmining operation between Milano and Rockdale.

He also cited additional use of Milam lignite by 1981 upon completion of the 545-megawatt TP&L generator which has just broken ground at the present generator site at Rockdale Works.

An additional generator system built jointly by Alcoa and TP&L will provide power for an Alcoa smelting facility at Palestine from its Robertson County site.

First Awards

Payne said Alcoa received the first soil conservation award to industry in Texas history from Taylor Soil Conservation District And Reagan noted Alcoa had received the first Texas surface mining permit, under the new law, which is renewed every five years.

Explaining additional supervisory duties over a swath of lignite from Texarkana to the Mexican border, Payne said his division's work "is cut out for us."

"We have a unique partnership with industry in a new era of Texas energy," he closed. "The public fears ugly scars on the countryside."

Realistic Balance...

The years for Shell's strip-mining operation are measured somewhere between 1981 and 1985, according to Roy Payne, director of the Surface Mining Division of Texas Railroad Commission.

Farmers in this area are organizing for appeals to save the family farm in the latter 1970s. The way prices in some commodities are going and the way weather has some of them this August, they need help.

Fortunately, industry is continuing to develop in individual plants. And groundwork is beginning on the three-year construction project on the TP&L generator at Alcoa.

On balance, things are on balance. But agriculture, which is almost half of the county's gross-dollar income, is playing brinkmanship with survival for smaller operators. And there are always more of them than any other kind.

Were it not for this balance, Cameron would be heading into some kind of state similar to the early '60s when cotton prices dropped out of sight. So chalk up a plus for planning a balanced economy.

But don't expect the net county income to surge, because this agriculture precipice has yet to be bridged... The sales tax figures continue strong, but they will begin going against fair figures last fall, improving into 1977.

There is fare for both the optimist or pessimist. Realists are keeping the same balance that has proved successful in a continuing Milam development story.

Something Better...

There's no wondering where they are now. We mean those people of a Dale Carnegie class of '63 which is substantially responsible for rejuvenating Cameron and several institutions deriving from or sustaining this area.

Almost to the man or woman, they are still active, instrumental in doing things, building, boosting.

Who are they? And where are they 14 years later?

James Hollas, Corpus Christi Caller-Times; Gene Smitherman, KMIL; Barbara Smitherman, retiring Cameron Chamber manager; Porter Young, service officer; Monroe Fuchs, Leo Fuchs, Edna Fuchs, Ideal Hatcheries; Drayton McLane, Jr., J.L. Callaway, McLane Co., Inc,; D.R. Laywell, L&M Jewelers, Anton Anderle, Anderle Co., Inc., John Davis, Citizens National Bank; Richard Williams, First National Bank, Janice Turner, First National Bank; John Schigut, Schigut's; Lloyd Rider, Rider's Truck Service; Franklyn Dusek, Dusek's Pharmacy; Frank Luecke, Cameron Herald; Jan Luecke, Back Door Shoppe and City Council; Monroe Marek, Main Printing; Forrest Sapp, Sapp Insurance to name a few.

Wouldn't you call that a success story in toto, the Class of '63? The cumulative miles, honors, contributions, positive developments are a who's who of this part of Central Texas.

Would you say they were lucky, as a group? A bit. But more than luck went with the desire to develop, as individuals within a group, the group beyond the individuals, the community and skills and professions each still represents.

Where do leaders and doers come from? From almost everywhere. And these are loyal to this town and this area beyond measures most people now would understand. When they started with the mid-60s problems of this town, they were vastly outnumbered by the problems.

The result is local history. The fact remains they are still young and doing more now than they were then. The doers have a staying power hardly comparable to attitudes of "the world owes me something because...."

This group and perhaps 15 more we haven't named know a great deal about how to turn reality into something better.

Governors Organize For Boost

Governors of Texas, Arizona, California and New Mexico have formed a new Southwest Border Regional Commission and hope it will boost the states' economies by millions of dollars.

Tucson, Arizona, is headquarters of the commission. After projects are earmarked, the agency will receive about $5 million in federal aid for stimulation of employment, industry and border planning.

California Gov. Edmund Brown Jr., co-chairman, said he hopes funds can be used for development of alternative energy sources, including solar, windmill and geothermal power in the deserts. High priority will go to production of the jojoba bean in the desert. Oil from the bean is used in cosmetics and lubricants.

Texas Gov. Dolph Briscoe said 24 counties along the Texas border also need money for public education and programs to offset the peso devaluation in Mexico.

Big Turnover

One of the biggest turnovers in Texas congressional history is anticipated next year.

U.S. Rep. Omar Burleson of the 17th district announced he is retiring after 32 years' service. Rep. George Mahon previously had revealed he is leaving the 19th district seat he occupied more than 40 years. Rep. Bob Krueger is vacating his 21st district position to campaign for the U.S. Senate.

Rep. W. R. Poage of the 11th district and Rep. Olin Teague of the Sixth district are also reported to be on the possible retirement list. Two or three others are listed as doubtful.

New Car Tag System

A new year-round, "staggered" form of auto license regulation goes into effect January 1.

Instead of all registrations expiring at the same time, April 1, they will expire on a staggered basis in different months through the year. (The 1977 registrations will expire April 1 and must be renewed by that deadline. After initial registrations of passenger cars and light trucks under the new system, future registrations will be for a period of 12 months. Renewal periods will be assigned according to the license plate numbers.

Highways and Public Transportation Department officials hope that after 1978, the system will eliminate those long lines each March at the county tax assessor-collectors' offices. Several states have tested the new plan.

held up a newspaper from Pampa showing protest actions of farmers in that area of Northwest Texas.

Aides from Cong. W.R. Poage's office attended. Clark Bolt, farm editor of the Waco dailies was there, along with area reps from television, radio and newspaper.

The group also discussed cutting production by 30 per cent, but moved to have the "tractor trailride". Charles Snider, Lonnie Dodd, Ron Pitts and Larry Stock were meeting at the end of the two-hour session to determine the proposed route.

Councilman Lincoln Mondrik asked Butler about reports he said he had that police officers in civilian clothes were in certain establishments watching to see if beer was being sold to minors. Butler said he had no knowledge of the incidents and had issued no orders for such surveillance.

Other business included approval of the final plat for Hefley Estates subdivision; tabling for study bids on a garbage truck chassis; approving purchase of a motorized auger for installing traffic signs; and a promise to the fire department that it would be included in a municipal building program.

OLD PHILOSOPHER

Dear editor:

With a new school year about to get underway the time seems right to look at a problem schools all over the country are faced with, or will be nine months from now.

The problem is the pupil who comes up to graduating time from high school without having learned to read and write. I have no idea how many of these there are, but people claim there're a lot.

"Why," some people say, "some high school graduates can't even fill out a simple government form."

That's no test. There are no simple government forms.

Nonetheless, some high school graduates are almost illiterate. But what's the school to do? You can't keep a kid in the first grade forever. In a few years he'll outgrow the seats. His knees won't fit under the tables. So a child is passed from one grade to another, everybody hoping he'll pick up something as he goes along, until finally , especially if he can play football, he makes it through and is shoved out the top with a diploma in his hand, which he may have to get somebody to read for him.

However, there are people who are demanding that a high school diploma mean something, educationally speaking. If one person achieves a genuine high school education and another doesn't, but their diplomas read the same, what is fair about that? Nothing.

So consider this: the Army has a special discharge which it sometimes gives an enlisted man. It's called a discharge "For the Convenience of the Government."

That's the answer, High schools need two sets of diplomas. One certifies that the student has truly attained a high school education, the other that he stayed in school twelve years and is being let out for the convenience of the teachers.

Yours faithfully,
J.A.

He also noted supervisory duties over uranium mining centered in five South Texas counties. And he cited Chevron and Exxon as two oil companies going into nuclear mining.

Payne told Rockdale Rotarians and guests, which included a number of county officials and media, that Texas lignite is low in sulphur content and is less objective to environment than most soft coals.

Impact Shown

Statistics showed the impact of the coal industry on future Texas energy. Payne noted a total of 115 billion tons of lignite and bituminous coal in Texas seams, including 10 billion tons of recoverable lignite near the surface and 100 billion tons in deep seated veins.

"This is the equivalent of 3000 billion barrels of oil in reserve," Payne emphasized.

He said without supervision of surface mining in both lignite and uranium operations, "we could have a million acres of unproductive excavation in Texas."

"I can state because of strong regulations, the problem will not arise," he continued.

Lignite has figured in mining in Texas since 1819 and in Milam County for electric energy since 1917 when TP&L tested its use. And he noted construction of Alcoa in Rockdale in 1951 to open major use of lignite as fuel in the modern Milam area.

About 35 people heard the speaker. Texas Alcoa head Fred Berg - eron was among those at the head table. A lunch preceded the Payne address.

County Agent's Notes

Drouth Problems Becoming Serious

By Bill McCutchen

Much of the Thorndale, San Gabriel, Milano, Gause and Branchville areas of the county haven't had any measurable rainfall since back in May and these areas of the county are certainly in bad shape.

Crops in these areas were hurt by the drouth and some cattlemen are being forced to feed or go to market with their cattle. Some are selling entire herds while others are culling and hoping to retain their basic cow herds.

It's quite a decision. Feeding livestock just isn't profitable and neither is selling. If the drouth persists some may wind up feeding and then being forced to sell.

There hasn't been any profit in the cow-calf business for over three years now drouth is just adding to the woes of those trying to hang on until better times arrive.

Stock water is not to the critical point in most places as we had a wet spring but some ponds are low and stock water could be a problem soon.

Another problem facing many cattlemen is hay. The hay crop has been short in most areas and non-existant in others. We could certainly use some good rains to help us with a good Fall hay crop.

I wish there was some good agricultural news but there just isn't any. The only crop that showed promise of making money was cotton and the price has dropped on cotton to .44¢ per pound and the seed price will probably be $80. or less per ton. This is not even close to being enough to cover ginning costs.

Never in my 15 years with the Extension Service have I seen all agricultural prices depressed. We have had poor prices for some commodities always but there were usually one or two commodities that showed some profit.

The nation may not be in recession or depression, but I can say one thing for certain agriculture is.

Grain Farmers Can Expect Price Increases

Grain sorghum producers can expect an increase in grain sorghum target prices (guarantee of the average price received by producers) for their 1977 crop if the President approves the new farm bill, according to GSPA president, A. W. Anthony, Jr., of Friona.

The target prices will be raised from $2.89 cwt. to $4.02 cwt. an increase of $1.13 cwt.; in 1978 the increase will be $1.31 cwt. bringing the target price up to $4.20 cwt.

Although corn producers will not see as big a boost as sorghum producers, there will be an increase of 53¢ cwt. for 1977 and 71¢ cwt. for 1978, raising target levels from $3.04 cwt. to $3.57 for 1977 and $3.75 for 1978.

The new farm bill will base target prices on the cost of production instead of the previous 95% of the nutritional value of corn, raising the target levels for grain sorghum by an additional 63¢ cwt.

Sorghum loan levels will remain at 95% of corn of $3.39 cwt for 1977 and for 1978. In 1978 and thereafter, support prices and payments will be made on the planted acreage for that year instead of the obsolete allotment system based on historical plantings.

Change Possible In Disaster Payments For '77

Wheat and feed grain farmers who have no acreage allotment or who have overplanted their allotments for these crops may become eligible for government disaster payments under the farm bill agreed to by congressional conferees, according to James E. Goad, chairman, Texas State ASC Committee.

"Under provisions of the conference bill, a farmer who has suffered reduced yields due to a natural disaster may be eligible for a payment based on the number of acres actually planted for harvest," Goad said. In the past, payments were based on the farm's alloted acres.

"In anticipation of possible adoption by Congress and enactment by the President, and to speed resulting payments to farmers," Goad said, "ASCS will begin accepting disaster claims from ALL farms for wheat and feed grains (corn, sorghym, and barley). However, no payments may be made under these provisions until enactment of the farm bill."

Farmers who wish to file or refile a disaster claim or who wish more information concerning the disaster payment program should contact their County ASCS Office or Agricultural Service Center.

Acid Substitute Is Used For Cotton

Cotton producers who have traditionally used desiccants, such as arsenic acid, to prepare their crop for stripper harvest may be obliged to use true defoliant compounds because of a tight supply of acid this season.

Dr. Robert B. Metzer, Texas Agricultural Extension Service cotton specialist, says preliminary investigations in the Rio Grande Valley reveal that a tank mix of 1.5 gallons of sodium chlorate, plus 1.5 pints of accelerate per acre appears to be the best acid substitute combination.

The organic phosphate defoliants --Def and Folex -- at 2 pints plus 1.5 pints of accelerate per acre also will do an effective job. Accelerate, a trade name for Endothall, appears to "soup up" the defoliants enough to desiccate small leaves at the terminal, while dropping the older leaves, Metzer says.

But regrowth can be a problem with these mixtures, especially in fields where soil moisture is still available or showers occur before and after treatment. To reduce the problem, Metzer suggests waiting until all bolls are open (90 to 100 per cent) so that there is little or no waiting to allow regrowth.

"Too often, considerable regrowth can occur while waiting for the remaining bolls to open--and that can spell trouble if you don't have acid," the specialist said.

The Rio Grande Valley study also shows that application with a broadcast boom ground rig or airplane seems to work best, he added.

Metzer emphasized that these recommendations are for producers who need to prepare for striller harvest but do not have arsenic acid. In the western area, paraquat works more effectively as a desiccant and can be used to prepare for crop stripping.

Cotton producers who use pickers should have adequate defoliants to prepare their crop in the conventional way. Those fortunate to have acid ar e strongly encouraged not to exceed recommended rates to help stretch the supply , Metzer said.

Buckholts Brethren

Chaplain James Parks of the Temple V A Center occupied the pulpit of the Buckholts Brethren Church during the absence of Pastor Milton Maly, who vacationed for two weeks.

Ray Posival of Austin gave a report of the 47th convention of the Unity of the Brethren which was held in Dallas. A special feature of the convention was the ordination of Robert Janek to the special ministry of hospital chaplaincy.

Preceding the ordination service, the Jan Hus School Class of 1977 presented several choral selections. Among the greetings to the convention were those from the Moravian Church in Nicaragua and Honduras.

Members of the church extended their sympathy to the Tomasek family due to the death of their loved one, Julius Tomasek.

Miss Connie Stalmach of Rogers has returned from Houston where she visited her aunt who is ill.

Local Hospital Joining Containment Effort

St. Edward Hospital in Cameron is participating in a cost containment program organized by the Sisters of Charity of the Incarnate Word (SCH), according to Sister Mary Pauline, administrator.

The program will be carried out through various task forces, including management services, cost effectiveness, marketing strategy, physician recruitment, professional recruitment, and energy, all through the major heading of a productivity committee located in Houston.

Cost effectiveness task force will develop a cost effectiveness program to improve the operations of SCH health care centers. The immediate tasks are to determine those areas where cost effectiveness can be demonstrated the quickest and to detect those less efficient departments where cost effectiveness programs should be installed and implemented.

The management services group will evaluate the need and feasibility of providing the services of SCH primarily to other Catholic hospitals so that Catholic hospitals as a whole will maintain their prominent position in the health care industry.

The marketing strategy task force will develop marketing programs to improve the position and increase the market share for SCH health care centers.

Another task force will develop programs to effectively recruit new physicians for the SCH health care centers requesting this service and also develop programs to continouusly improve relations between the SCH centers and their medical staffs.

A productivity suggestion box will be used by the professional recruitment team to gather, analyze and recommend implementation of incoming suggestions; to establish guidelines and coordinate productivity contests; and to develop programs to reward those who successfully contributed to a productivity improvement.

The energy task force will develop programs to conserve energy and minimize the centers' energy costs.

The SCH productivity committee will evaluate and recommend to the SCH board of directors actual implementation of task force proposals. Aim is to better the quality of care at reasonable and affordable prices.

Texas Food and Fiber

by Reagan V. Brown, Commissioner
Texas Department of Agriculture

Driving out of Austin the other day, I was passed by a car of early 1970 vintage. On the rear bumper was a sticker which declared: "If You Like to Eat, You're Involved in Agriculture."

I liked that. And it set me to thinking. What does Texas agriculture mean to you and to me?

The value of the agricultural industry simply cannot be overemphasized. Last year, for example, the estimated cash receipts from the sale of crops and livestock in Texas amounted to $6.4 billion. This dollar figure, translated into economic impact as the raw agricultural products move through the channels of trade, amounted to $23 billion, giving the state's economy a healthy boost.

Texas agriculture touches each of us. As consumers, we can depend on a fresh, close-at-hand supply of food the year 'round. Each year, an increasing portion of the 1,575 pounds of food consumed by each of us and our families is being produced in Texas. Too, the buying power of our food and fiber dollars is increasing. Today, only $12.50 of every $100 is spent on food compared to the $23 spent in the 1950's.

If you are a member of a Union, an hour's wage will purchase more clean, nutritious food than in any other nation.

Besides being a producer, Texas' farmers and ranchers are also consumers. They buy food, clothing, household furnishings, building materials, autos and auto supplies, farm machinery, fertilizer and pesticides. They spend more than $5 billion a year just to produce their crops and to raise their livestock. They spend over $457 million a year on fuel and purchase 2.5 million tons of fertilizer and minerals.

Like you and me, the Texas farmer is a taxpayer. School districts, hospital districts, water districts, county, state and federal tax collectors all receive their share of the farmers' tax dollars.

We go back to the old homestead, the old home town. Perhaps we have long anticipated that visit, but now we find that the changes are so disillusioning that we don't care whether we ever return. We meet a friend of years gone by and hardly recognize him. He too has changed. We compare the face reflected from our mirror with old photographs and realize that, without knowing it, we have changed. We try to use a map of yester-year only to discover that it is out of date.

We shudder a little as we wonder if there is anything that remains the same.

The Church tells us that there is. Through the centuries it is the one institution which points to the unchanging God, "the same yesterday, today, and forever." Worship customs may differ, but every Christian congregation seeks to lead men to the one great Certainty, which is God. That is why you will want to attend church regularly. Here is peace. Here is assurance.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . .
. . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

A&M Architecture Students Recording Victorian Era Buildings In Calvert

This Robertson County Town, which is often billed as the "Antique Capital of Texas," is itself well on the way to officially becoming an antique with the help of a team of graduate architecture students from Texas A&M University.

The group, led by Professor David Woodcock, head of the Department of Architecture, is involved in an academic project to make a record of the Victorian era buildings lining the main street of Calvert.

The drawings and photographic montages will be made available to the Texas Historical Society as part of the designation application for a historic district on the National Register of Historic Places.

"The work pays off in two ways," said Professor Woodcock. "Future generations interested in the specifics of Victorian era architecture will be able to find them scientifically recorded, even if the buildings themselves disappear (as some did in a recent tornado), and, in addition, the graduate students gain experience and knowledge by doing the work."

The study is one of the College of Architecture and Environmental Design's summer preservation courses. Another involves the actual preservation of historic buildings. Both use Calvert as a study resource.

The task also consists of measuring the buildings along Main Street, recording these measurements and drawings, and putting them together with photographs and records of verbal information gained from residents.

Each student must produce an investigative report giving an in-depth description of a Calvert building which muct include the building's use, construction, spatial features and cultural significance.

The students have had an introduction to the history of Calvert, its origin and significance. They also have studied federal and state laws on preservation and learned of assistance programs and agencies.

However, not all of the work involves measurements. Local citizens and members of the Robertson County Historical Society are being interviewed. The student group is also working with the cooperation of the Calvert Chamber of Commerce.

Calvert Hotel Players To Present Comedy

The Calvert Hotel Players will present their second production of the season, "Star Spangled Girl," a Neil Simon comedy August 19-20.

Though playing in the middle of practically nowhere (Calvert) the non-equity company plays to full houses regularly.

The setting for the little theatre (90-- present capacity crowd) is the large common room of the hotel. Guests walk up the high steps of the Victorian building, enter a lobby filled with period furniture and framed with the original carved woodwork double doorway, with the stage just beyond.

A buffet of traditional central Texas food is laid out with typical Texas hospitality and guests can eat all they want. Included is a salad bar made from a curved footed bathtub.

After supper there is a musical interlude, also of professional quality while the theatre is prepared for the play.

Reservations are needed because of the theatre's small capacity. They can be made by calling 713-364-2641 or 364-8810. Call early. Ticket prices are $6.95 for adults and $4.75 for children.

August 13 Was Happy Day For Lucko Family

August 13 was no unlucky day for the Monroe Lucko family, although they had to split up and go in different directions, but it was a happy day with two of their five daughters receiving their masters degrees in education.

Sharon (Mrs. David Skupin), received her degree from Baylor University. Carol (Mrs. Glenn Stock), received her degree from Texas A&M University.

So it was a little problem for the family as to who would go where that Saturday.

Since graduation came on the same day for both girls, it was decided that Mom would go to Baylor and Dad would attend exercises at A&M. And their younger sister Ellen had to flip a coin for her decision -- it came up Baylor.

Not All Coupons Worth Clipping

Not every coupon is worth clipping. Some are money savers, but some invite waste, says Claudia Kerbel, consumer information specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Save money by redeeming coupons on products you regularly use. But don't buy unneeded items just because the coupon makes them cheaper, advises the specialist.

Coupons come by the billions -- on packaged products, through the mail, and in newspapers and magazines. But each one has restrictions so read anf follow the manufacturer's terms.

Brown Bag The Basic Four When Packing Lunches

Brown bag the basic four -- milk, meat, fruits/vegetables, and bread/cereals, suggests Frances Reasonover, a foods and nutrition specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

For milk, use cheese: sandwiches with filling of pimento cheese; any sliced, ready - to -eat cheese, or a cheese dip with crackers. For a weight problem, cottage cheese or Neufchatel, seasoned. On a cold day, send a thermos of hot cream soup.

Meats go ready - sliced -- such as sausage or ham -- or combine with cheese for a variety. Refried beans pack as a dip for meat substitute.

Add fruits and vegetables for flavor, color and texture, but especially for vitamin content. Carrot sticks, high in vitamin A, are crisp and easy.

Oranges peeled and cut -- or sectioned ahead of time for easy eating -- are high in vitamin C or for eash packing, can travel unpeeled. The rind gives extra protection to the vitamin content.

Apples, bananas, pears or a jar or container of canned fruit also add nutrition and variety.

Crunchy celery or pickles give the brown bag meal added appeal. Lettuce and tomatoes, plastic packed, add zest to a sandwich meal.

To add further variety, try tomatoes and avocados mixed with cheese. Also, a plastic bag of fresh crisp vegetables can serve as dippers -- cauliflower flowerettes, sliced zucchini, turnip strips.

In the bread/ cereals category, count sandwich bread, crackers for dips, or oatmeal for cookies and cakes. Oatmeal, puffed rice and other ready-to-eat types added to cookies increase their nutritional value.

Go slow on high-fat, high sweet desserts for the weight watcher. For a sweet taste and the daily requirement of the fruit good group include cookies full of fresh or dried apples or apricots, raisins or prunes.

Handle school lunches carefully; practice safety precautions. Do not, for example, pack ham on a warm school day unless refrigeration is available.

One serving size insulated containers will keep hot and cold foods at the right temperature, and therefore safe.

Add a small piece of candy to the lunch, or some other pleasand surprise.

The Consumer Alert

by John L. Hill
Attorney General

AUSTIN—"He's a deadbeat—you ought to fire him." What if your employer got a call like that about you? It's not likely, of course, because if you owe a debt, you usually pay and pay on time, according to statistics.

But there may come a time when, because of sickness, unemployment, or other reasons, you may be unable to. At that point, you may come up against some of the worst aspects of consumer deception, and fraud.

These are occasionally exhibited by the small number of unscrupulous businesses, agencies, or individuals engaged in debt collection efforts. While most debt collection efforts are honest and within the law, the small number that are dishonest or deceptive can mean a great deal of trouble for some consumers.

In Texas, we have two strong laws against unlawful debt collection practices: the Deceptive Trade Practices-Consumer Protection Act and the Debt Collection Practices Act.

Attorneys in our Consumer Protection Division testified last spring before a Congressional committee about debt collection in our State, the protections consumers now have, and others that might be needed.

Committee members learned that from September 1973 through February 1977, our Consumer Protection Division processed about 800 complaints of abusive debt collection practices, and dispensed information on the subject to hundreds more inquirers. A total of nearly $18,000 in restitution was obtained for consumers who were unfairly solicited for debts. Close to $17,300 was collected in civil penalties for the State from those who were engaged in unlawful debt collection efforts.

What kind of illegal practices have our attorneys found? Everything from harassing telephone calls to employers, to threats to garnish wages, to collection forms that look like legal documents. Also, threats to have out-of-state debtors extradited to Texas and their children made wards of the courts, threats of repossession of all of the debtor's household goods and appliances, and use of profanity to the debtor and his family.

All of these tactics are illegal, our attorneys stress, and should be reported to our office. In many cases, such fraudulent efforts to collect debts may actually reduce the ability of the debtor ever to pay off the amount owed. For example, our attorneys have found that any collection efforts that include contact with a debtor's employer, even when such contact is not harassing, have a tendency to jeopardize job and income. Where this occurs, neither the debtor nor the debt collector's best interests are served, and the collector may lose any chance of ever collecting the money owed.

Our office is not involved in assisting debt collectors to obtain payments. Under the law, we are involved in seeing that any illegal or deceptive attempts to obtain payment from a debtor are stopped. If you have any question or complaint about debt collection practices, call our Consumer Protection Division in Austin, Houston, Dallas, San Antonio, El Paso, Lubbock, or McAllen. Outside those areas, call this toll-free number: 1-800-252-9236.

CARD OF THANKS

To all our friends and relatives, we wish to express our deepest appreciation for all the acts of kindness, love, sympathy, and for your many prayers. Thank you for all the wonderful food you prepared. Thank you all, for all the help and hard work you did at a time of need. Thank you for all the beautiful flowers and cards sent during the long illness and passing away of our loving wife and mother, Rita.

A special thanks to Father Paul for the many, prayers he said, and the beautiful words he spoke at the Rosary and Mass. To Dr. Richards, Dr. Young, Dr. Weed and to Peggy Jones, who went out of their way to help and comfort her. And to all the nurses at the clinic and the hospital. To Dr. Throwbridge, Dr. Bonnett, Dr. Amerall and the nurses while she was under their care at Scott & White. To Clyde Jones and the Phillips & Luckey funeral home staff. Also to the Taylor Knights of Columbus for allowing us to use their hall during our luncheon meal. With all our hearts we thank you.
